

NEW SPHINX FOUND

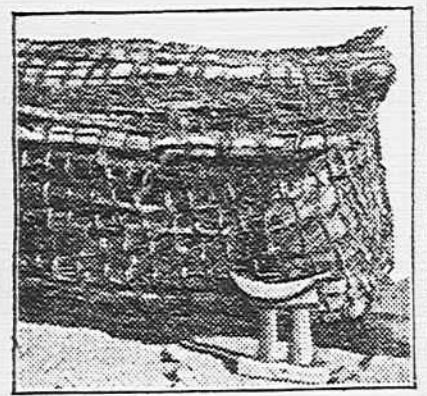

Student of British Museum Discovers It in Egypt.

Fourteen Feet High of Alabaster, Dug From Between the Columns in Water-Logged Plain of Old Memphis.

Cairo, Egypt.—Another sphinx, weighing ninety tons, and carved from a single block of alabaster, has been unearthed at a point between the world-famed Colossi, on the water-logged plains of Memphis, in Egypt. For hundreds of years it has lain in a recumbent position buried beneath the sands on the road to Sakkarah. Today it is half-exposed to view, and next year it is to be raised to a vertical position above the water-line.

This newly found sphinx was betrayed in its hiding place by its tail, which Mr. Mackay, one of the students of the British School in Egypt, discovered about a year ago. This year, when the water on the plain subsided, the complete figure was excavated, and the sphinx was found to be a rock foreign to the neighborhood, the new sphinx ranks as the largest that has ever been transported. The figure bears no inscription, but is considered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, the director of the British School in Egypt, to have been carved about 1200 B. C. Many other remarkable discoveries, taking the mind back as far as 5500 B. C., and lifting the veil of centuries from Egypt's romantic story, have also been made by the same school, and, with the exception of a red granite group of Ramses II and the god Ptah, which will be sent direct to the Ny Carlsberg Museum at Copenhagen, and a few other details, are now on exhibition at the University College, Gower street. They include many objects quite new to Egyptologists.

Among these are coffins made of basket work, reeds or withes, sandals, an axe handle, in which the grip is composed of delicately knotted string, a pot of unburnt incense for a fire-offering of 4000 B. C., and numerous pieces of timber, showing by their formation the principles of building construction that were in vogue nearly 6000 years B. C.

The graves of the early Egyptians were always well provided with necessities as were thought essential for the spirit of the departed when it again materialized. Consequently, the relics from Tarkhan include headrests (some of them carved out of trees trained specially into peculiar shapes), sandals, large jars of food, and various vessels of gypsum and semi-transparent alabaster. Some of the vessels bear the name of Menes, the earliest known Egyptian king. They are considered by some experts to be a tribute corresponding to the modern floral wreath.

Evidence is also provided of the lack of historical sentiment in the Roman occupants of Egypt by numerous examples of inscribed Egyptian tablets that have been used as hearth stones, door lintels, and mill stones. There is also ample evidence of the belief that sacrifices among the tombs was more common in the earlier periods of Egyptian history than in later periods.

HAS MARRIED 4,000 COUPLES

Tennessee Minister Builds Hotel Especially for Eloping Couples.

Bristol, Tenn.—Rev. Alfred Harrison Burroughs of Bristol, now in his eightieth year, has married 4,000 couples in the last twenty-three years. "I had no thought of making this a business," said the aged minister. "I was licensed to marry people many years ago, and when the first runaway couple sought me in 1889, I consented to marry them more as a matter of accommodation than anything else. "Some of my friends were present and witnessed the marriage. They complimented me and told me that I ought to make marrying a business. After that I did not decline to offer my services whenever a couple came my way. Month by month the business grew until I sometimes married from three to six couples a day. "So rapidly did the minister's marrying business increase that he built a hotel designed especially to accommodate eloping couples.

New Wrinkle in Laundry.

San Bernardino, Cal.—When his laundry bill showed a charge for washing four greenbacks, George B. Rowan gasped in astonishment. He looked through his laundry and found a pile of carefully ironed and starched banknotes which had come home with his weekly wash. They amounted to $60, which he remembered having failed to remove from his clothing before sending it to the laundry.

SAVED FROM RUIN

Undermining of Winchester Cathedral Stopped by Cement.

For Many Years the Historic Building Has Been Cracking, Bulging and Settling, Threatening to Collapse Completely.

London.—After a period of eight centuries, Winchester cathedral now rests on a solid and immovable foundation, saved from threatened ruin. Almost every day in the last few years the movements of a diver in regulation dress have been watched with curious interest as he entered or emerged from the water beneath the foundations of the cathedral. He was at work helping to save from ruin one of England's noblest historic buildings, and the successful issue of the undertaking has been celebrated by a thanksgiving service in the cathedral.

For several years the dean and chapter of Winchester had been watching ominous signs, such as cracks, bulging and settlements, sure harbingers of a collapse of the cathedral. From the interior daylight could be seen through the cracks; the latter grew ever wider and wider. The walls on the south side and the Norman transepts, unequalled for their majestic simplicity, were riven in all directions. The massive masonry of the Norman builders had from the beginning proved too ponderous for the water, compressible soil which forms the foundation.

The first hole dug into the foundations revealed the cause of the whole trouble—water—and acting on expert advice, holes were dug in sections through the top soil and chalk and far through the peat. Then it was the work of the diver in his usual diving dress to enter the hole, remove further layers of peat so as to allow the water to rise into the cavity, and then to lay a flooring of cement to prevent the water from sinking back into the gravel. After the imprisoned water had been removed by pumping the cavity was filled up with brickwork in cement. This extended from the floor laid by the diver up to the solid stonework of the cathedral, showing like a roof of rock overhead. While the water underground was being carried on, patiently and thoroughly, seven anxious years, the cracks in the walls, vaultings and arches of the fabric were welded by the injection of liquid Portland cement from a squirting machine, a process known as grouting, capable of being so manipulated as to fill either a shallow crack or a rent through the thickness of a massive wall.

Every crevice is now being repaired, every flaw and displacement remedied, every trace of instability in the foundations removed, and the cathedral seems to stand as solidly as the strongest building in the kingdom.

MAN'S SIGHT IS RESTORED

Fall Against Door Gives George Morgan Hope for Complete Recovery.

Wilmington, Del.—Becoming totally blind fourteen weeks ago, George M. Morgan Jr., aged thirty-three years, 1331 East Thirteenth street, had his sight restored to him through an accident. About eleven years ago Morgan was struck in one eye with a stone a small boy had thrown at a freight car. His sight was badly affected and last September he went to St. Joseph's hospital in Baltimore to have his eye treated. While sitting in his boarding house fourteen weeks ago he suddenly became totally blind without any warning whatever.

He came to this city to visit his parents on June 29, and he tripped over a rug and fell, his forehead striking a door-bump with much force. When he arose he found that he could see the daylight and later developed

IN THE JUNGLES OF MALAY

Hunter of White Rhinoceros Has Dangerous Fate to Contend With—Animals Attack Man.

Singapore.—Of the three great islands of the Malay peninsula, as a big game resort, Sumatra is said to be the best. Borneo the worst. In Sumatra all the great mammalian varieties are to be found, the tiger, the elephant, rhinoceros, tapir, orang-utang and slambang. In Java, the elephant, tapir and orang-utang are missing, but the rhinoceros and tiger are represented. In Borneo all these large animals are unknown now, though doubtless they existed there in former days. Sumatra offers less inducements to the general order of visitors than the other two mentioned above for several reasons.

The Shikari will find the traveling very bad in such regions as have no roads. For hours, sometimes, he will have to wade waist deep in slimy slush, not infrequently finding himself, like the Irishman in the story, "up to the ankles in mud," but, as he forgot to mention, "head downwards." Added to this, he must be prepared to view everything through a perfect haze of mosquitoes. Such is the home of the white rhinoceros, and thither the hunter must venture who wishes to get a shot at him. This, it may be remarked, is by no means synonymous with bagging his pachydermatous majesty. Indeed, he often does not turn the tables on his pursuer.

This monster is said to be the only animal that will attack man unprovoked, and considering that, unwieldy though he looks, he can go as fast as a horse, the encounter is no joke. The retreating hunter's best course, is to seek safety up a tree; though, unless it is a pretty stout one, this will not better his position much. Even if it is, he may be "treed" there for a considerable time. Unless a European is quite fever-proof and provided with special firearms, this branch of sport is better left untried.

Monkeys abound in endless variety in all these islands, but especially in Borneo. The peacocks, pigeons of various kinds, and a very handsome pheasant, also several water birds, waders and lovely kingfishers. There are said to be no less than 240 species of land birds known to inhabit this island of Java, while at least 40 are peculiar to it. On the other hand, no more than 16 genera found in the adjacent island are absent from this one. Rhinoceroses, leopards, wild dogs and other small game are to be met, and deer are abundant, but there are no antelope or goats.

Saves Leg Of Boy

"It seemed that my 14-year old boy would have to lose his leg, on account of an ugly ulcer, caused by a bad bruise," wrote Dr. F. Howard, Aqueduct, N. C. "All remedies and doctors tried failed till we tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and cured him with one box." Cures burns, boils, skin eruptions, piles, 25c at all druggists.

The Corn Crop is Short This Year

Late corn is almost a failure, and there is very little early corn. Buying corn makes your crops expensive.

We wish to suggest to the farmers that they prepare well one or two acres to the plow, three would be better; fertilize it well and sow it in oats. Between the middle and last of next May your oats will be in and after that you can finish your crop with very little corn.

You can fertilize your oats this fall with our 10-4 goods and top dress next spring with soda. This will make fine oats. This 10-4 is a fine fertilizer for oats or wheat and is cheap. If you try this plan we believe it will pay you.
